

SUMMER RIDDLE FUN

For our summer newsletter I thought I'd try to create some fun by putting together a few riddles for you to solve.

I help to carry lunch or snacks,
The ball just passes through,
Maybe I'll hold a nice bouquet
A loved one gives to you.

The diaries of Anne Hathaway,
A discomforting pea,
A frog that is not quite a frog
All have to do with me.

A ruthless version, either way,
Perhaps a baseball star,
Or even for the younger folk
Maybe a candy bar.

I need a source if I am to
Meander north or south
I change my channel over time
But never close my mouth.

A mummy is what I am now,
But what was I back when
I lived and breathed and surveyed all
The land I managed then?

You draw me, but I never show
A picture or design,
You take me but I never move,
I'll leave you smelling fine.

My great-grandmother, long ago,
Had children, don't you see?
Her child's child had some more,
So, what is she to me?

Now, take all of the answers to these riddles and put them together, and use them as clues to a well-known story from the Bible. The answers will be given in the next newsletter. Have fun.
